Democrats, and, it is generally ordered, by her and Candidates for all the vecant offices are numerous, and many interests are to be consulted in the selection.

Mayor II's said to a Thinux reporter yesterday that he should not make any nominations to the Aldermen today, but would wait until their next needlas.

Ramors were current during the day that several of the Democratic Aldermen would be absent at Albany looking after the "Ominious bill" and holding a consultation with the Republican leaders in the Legislature. It was said similicantly that these Tammany Aldermen Raew Join Kelly's wisnes and were authorized to speak for him in the rending negotiations. If an understanding should be reached a special meeting of the Aldermen would be held on Thursday to receive the names to be sent in by the Mayor in necordance with the wishes of the party leaders. The inaversal feeling among the City Hail politicanus was that the present session of the Legislature would not result in the passage of any laws adverse to the interests of party patronage of the Tambany Hail office-holders.

COAL COMBINATION IMPRACTICABLE. WHAT THE LEADING COMPANIES ADMIT.

Recent developments in the coal trade give unmistakable evidence that nearly all hope of a combination to control the coal tonnage for the current year, if such hope were ever seriously entertained, has been abandoned by the representatives of most of the leading coal companies. The production of the authracite mines for the week ending April 21 was 455,410 tens. This was larger than in any other week this year, and in excess of the corresponding week of 1876. The action of the Philadelphia and Reading Company in extentrade to points heretofore regarded as belonging exsively to other companies, and the unprecedented efforts of the Reading Company to sell all the coal it can send to market at the best prices obtainable, together with the statements that have been made by Mr. Gowen since the last meeting of the representatives of the companies have led other managers to believe that the scheme as then proposed is impracticable; and while they do not confess this to reporters, they freely express it in conversation among themselves. A prominent efficial of one of the large companies admitted to a TribuNE reporter recently that the fear of another combination, which would result in a large increase in the price of coal, had more influence with the manufacturers in preventing them from resuming operations or extending their business than any other consideration at present. He thought they would be willing to pay a reasonable advance over present prices, and it they could be assured that this advance would not exceed say 50 cents a ton, a stimulus would be added to the coal trade of more value than all the combinations that could be formed in the next five years. Some official action regarding the existing condition of affairs will probably be taken at an early day, looking to the announcement of an abrogation of all agreements to control either prices or tofmage. In the mean time coul is seiling largely without regard to schedule rates and at prices fully as low as at any previous time, while retail desices are forcing it into every nook and corner. The production since Jun. I has exceeded that of the corresponding period of last year by 1,352,167 tons. do not confess this to reporters, they freely express it in by 1,352,167 tons.

MR. HALL'S FAMILY AND BOOKS. THE WIFE AND DAUGHTERS STILL HERE-SALE OF THE LAW LIBRARY.

A rumor was in circulation yesterday that the wife and daughters of Oakey Hall had sailed for on Saturday, and that the family residence at No. 13 West Forty-second-st. was to be sold, together with its furniture and the contents of Mr. Hall's law office. The first part of the story was found to be premature. Many persons believe that the Hall family will Hall, but there is no doubt all of the members are yet in the When visited yesterday, Mr. Hali's fine brown-stone front, just off Fifth-ave., was not found desolate and with a card "For sale" upon the window. tripped lightly across the street from Reservoir Park. flowers bloomed and birds sang in the front windows of nowers bloomed and birds sang in the front windows of each story of the house, and a general appearance of cheerfulness prevailed. A gentleman doing business not far from the Hall residence stated vesterday that he had reasons for believing that the ex-Mayor was in communication with his family. He understands that the latest information received by the family from London was that Mr. Hall's mind was affected. His departure was known to his family, the members of which, it had been arranged, were to follow him and they would soon make the journey. A prominent real estate agent on Sixtave, said the Hall family was auxious to get the property converted into ready money.

Mr. Hall's law library was removed from his late office in The Tribuxe building early yesterday morning. The books and papers had been carefully packed in several large boxes, which were addressed to Bangs & Co. At the auction rooms of Bangs & Co., No. 656 Broadway, late yesterday afternoon, Mr. Hall's library could not be found. Mr. Bangs stated that he expected the library to be brought there, and that he had instructions to soil it. The sale would not be made for several weeks. It was a large library, he thought, but he had not examined it, and could therefore form no estimate of its size or probable value. As the library was not taken directly to the auction rooms, it is thought it was first conveyed to the family residence, where it will be assorted and probably classified. It is stated that the furniture in Mr. Hall's office will also be removed soon and sold at auction. Mr. Hall's large library of a general character at his residence, it is thought, will not be sold. Many of the books and sonyenis are of rare value and are highly prized by Mr. Hall's wife and daughters.

A SERVANT GIRL POISONED.

DEATH FROM WHAT SHE THOUGHT CLARET. The poisoning of Rose Wyse, a servant at the residence of A. T. Rice, No. 12 East Twenty-ninth-st., is now under investigation by Coroner Woltman. In Mr Rice's house several servants are employed under the direction of Henry Corbet, the butler. Some days ago Corbet engaged a man named John Leggett to clean the windows and doors, and yesterday he was at work in the basement in company with Rose Wyse and one or two While cleaning the door of a small closet Leggett discovered on one of the shelves a bottle which contained a fluid somewhat resembling claret in He partially filled a goblet with it and said to Rose Wyse. " Rose, won't you have a glass of claret!" The girl took the goblet and with a light laugh, drank as part of the contents; then suddenly detecting something wrong in the taste she set down the gobiet, exclaiming. "What have you given me!" Almost immediately she fell into violent convulsions and died before medical violent convuisions and died before medical aid could be summoned. The butler, Corbet, was absent at the time, but returned soon after the death of the g.rl, and he recognized the fluid she had swallowed as a mixture of hydrocyanic acid and some other substance which he had perchased for cleaning silverware.

The police of the Twenty-minth Frechet were immediately informed and an inquiry was begun. Some of the servants declared that Leggett had not been on good ferms what the dead girl and he was put under arrest. He declared that he was entirely ignorant of the poisonous mature of the liquid, but Coroner Wolfman thought it best to commit him to prison until a jury could decide on his case. The Coroner censured the butler for allowing a poisonous mixture to remain in a place where it ing a poisonous mixture to remain in a place w could be reached 7% a person ignorant of its nature would have commuted him also had not Mr. Rice bon, a for his appearance before a coroner's jury.

THE STREET REFUSE PROBLEM.

The four Police Commissioners, the Commisciclers of Charities and Correction, Superintendent Walling, and Police Capt. Gusner, with Jackson 8. Schultz as . representative of the Society of Municipal Reform, made a trip on Euroday to Hart's Island with a view of inspecting its adaptab lity as a dumping place for street refuse. The island is in the shape of a horseshoe, and a large bay or inter is formed between the two extremities. It was stated that by filling up the space with street dirt and ashes nearly 250 acres of good land would be added to the area of the island. This plan met with the favor of all those inspecting the place, but it was considered necessary to place crib-work across the mouth of the bay so that the deposits would not be washed away with the tide. The island is used in part for penal purposes, and it was suggested that the work of unload ing the scows and filling in the space could be done by the convicts, thus saving to the Police Department the expense of hiring laborers for that work. A small piece of crib-work has already been completed, and it is estimated that the cost of extending it would not be very large. The Dock Department has jurisdiction in the matter, and will be asked at once to do the work neces-sary to make a place where refuse may be taken for the State Senator Prince, Benj. W. Downing, and Capt. State Senator Prince, Benj. W. Downing, and Capt. Merritt of the Coast Wrecking Company, who were appointed a committee to visit the Pilot Commissioners in relation to the dumping of garbage in the waters of Queens County, were informed that the dumping was under the supervision of the Police Commissioners of this city. Mr. Prince will present a resolution to the State Senate protesting against it, and Mr. Downing will appear before the Grand Jury and, if possible, have the ers indicted.

A STARTLING STORY OF ROBBERY. DIAMONDS VALUED AT $55,000 REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN SIGLEN-CONFLICTING STATEMENTS, AND

A DENIAL. The poice authorities were informed last week of a mysterious case of robbery, involving diamends and jeweiry valued at about $55,000. It was stated that upon arriving at the residence of his brother, Edward G. Jones, at No. 21 West Twenty-third-st., last Thursday, Mr. Jones of Balti-more found that his trunk, which he had elecked from hat city, had been tampered with, and diamonds and ther gems, worth with the settings nearly $55,000, had seen taken. Mr. Jones said that he discovered his loss s the prescuce of a driver of the New-York Transfer Company, named Ryan, who had brought the trunk from the Pennsylvania depot. The driver stated that while cating his dinner he had left the wagon containing the trunk at the stables of the company on Sixth-ave., and that the trunk was not out of his sight at any other time. Upon returning to his wagen he did not observe that it had been opened, or in any way meddled with. Mr. Jones at first put the case in the hands of the police that it might be fully investigated, but later he said that he felt inclined to adopt the theory that the property was stolen while the trunk was on the cars between Baltimore and this city. Accordingly, Mr. Jones, with detectives, left New-York for Baltimore last Friday, saying that he would pursue his inquiries in conjunction with the officers of the Penusylvania Railroad. A. S. Dodd of No. 48 West Tairty-lifth-st., manager of the New-York Transfer Company, was positive that the trunk was not opened at the stables in the driver's absence, as no less than ten men were working on the premises at that time, in full view of the wagon. Mr. Jones, he says, did not make any complaint to the com-

The police said last night that the owner of the diamonds, when he found that the fastenings of his trunk diamonds, when he found that the fastenings of his trink had been misplaced, directed the expression, Ryan, to inform the express company of his loss, but when Assistant Superintendent Califds called in the evening of the same day Mr. Jones refused to see him. At a later hour if was assected that the admission had been made at the house of Edward G. Jones that the diamonds had not been lost at all. It was impossible to reconcile the conflicting statements in the matter, but it was believed by the express company's officers and by the police that Mr. Jones, when he saw that the fastenings of his trunk had been displaced, jumped to the conclusion—without stopping to make examination—that has diamonds but been stolen, and mformed the pikee, but afterward, finding that the gens lad not been taken, he afterward, finding that the gents had not been taken, he was unwilling to admit his hasty error and returned to Baltimore without making an explana

R. H. MACY'S WILL. THE SON GIVEN ONLY $1,000 PER YEAR.

The will of the late Rowland H. Macy, founder and senior member of the firm of R. H. Macy & Co., at Sixth-ave, and Fourteenth-st., was offered for probate in the Surrogate's office yesterday. date of February 8, 1877. The testator's wife, Louisa II. Macy, and his daugater Florence, wife of James F. Sutton, are named as executresses, and the entire property is left to them in trust. To his wife he gives the use during her life, of the household furniture, books, bronzes, works of art, the wines and liquers, and other contents of the family residence, No. 62 West Fortyninth-st. After her death the property is to go to Mrs. Sutton. The house is disposed of in the same tranner To Mr. Macy's mother the will gives a weekly allowance of $20 during her life. To his daughter, Mrs. Sutton, the sum of $60,000 is left to be invested in bonds, to afford her maintenance in case financial misfortune befails her husband. A bequest to his son is made in the following language:

I am grieved to say in this solemn manner that my experience has been such with my son, Rowland II. Macy, Jr., that I cannot intrust him with the care or maingement of any property. He has never succeeded in supnorting himself. On the centrary, though he is now 29 years of age, he has been entirely supported and maintained by me, and atthough I have done everything in my power to aid him in establishing habits of temperance and sobriety, yet I am compelied to acknowledge the failure of every effort made by me and others to that end. His passion for strong drink has not hitherto been controlled by him. In view of these facts I have deemed it wise to make the following prevision for his support and maintenance during his natural life: I direct that my said executresses, or the survivors of them or their successors, do, as soen after my occase as conveniently may be, invest in United States Government bonds a may be, invest in United States Government bonds a sum the annual interest or income of which shall amount to $1,000, and that they pay to my said son the sid in terest or income when and as collected, unless my said son shall contest this will or undertake to dectat its provisions, in which case I direct that he have no part or portion of my estate.

The remainder of the property of whatever kind the executresses are directed to dispose of as they see fit, the proceeds to be divided equally between the wife and aughter. They are directed to reduce the real estate to operty as soon as it can be advantageously value of the estate is variously estimated a $500,000 to $1,000,000.

LAST CALL OF THE GOLD EXCHANGE.

Yesterday was the last day of the New-York Gold Exchange. Promptly at 3 o'clock the president, C. O. Morris, called the members to order, as , after reading the section of the constitution providing for the dissolution of the board, as recently adopted, stated that an agreement had been signed by 400 members, or over raffths of the total membership, providing for the dissolution of the exchange on April 30. conformity with such agreement and the con-stitution of the board, he therefore declared stitution of the board, he therefore declared the New-York Gold Exchange dissolved. The president continued by giving a brief review of the history of the exchange from its organization in 1864, when H. M. Benediet was made president, to the present time. After Mr. Benediet had served four years, he was succeeded by Townsend Cox, who in turn was followed by six others, Mr. Morris having served two terms. The clearing department was not organized until Dec. 10, 1866, Mr. Morris defended the existence of the Gold Exchange in the past, claiming it had been as necessity.

He was succeeded the vice-president, secterary, and treasurer, who, in a w brief remarks, thanked the members for the courtesy by the vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, when has few brief remarks, thanked the members for the courtesy and kindness shown them.

The President of the Stock Exchange, Samuel T. Russell, stated that it had been decided to establish a gold department of the Stock Exchange, to be carried on in the room heretofore occupied by the Gold Board, and the first meeting would be held at 10 o'clock this morning. Hereafter dealings in Government bonds would also take place in this room, and for this purpose there would be three calls of these bonds, as follows, at 10:15 a. m., 11:30 a. m., and 2 p. m., each occupying from seven to take minutes. George W. McLean, Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, announced that the rules governing the gold department would conform as nearly as possible with those heretofore in existence in the Gold Room. A. W. Peters, Secretary of the Gold Exchange, had agreed to preside temporarily over the Gold Room, in place of the former vice-president. The treasurer stated that all dues from members had been paid, and there would be left on hand to be divided among the members, after settling all accounts, about $123,000. The average daily clearances have been $50,000,000.

A parting dinner of the members of the Exchange was given in the evening at Deimonico's, at Fifth-ave, and Twenty-eixtli-st., at which nearly all the members were present.

THE RUSSO-TURKISH CONFLICT. THE RUSSIANS GAINING BY DELAY.

LONDON, Tuesday, May 1, 1877. The Times's Galatz correspondent, reviewing toe situation, says: "I do not believe the Russians will at present attempt anything beyond occupying certain strategic points for the purpose of protecting railway . bridges and crossings of the Danube against Turkish cavalry raids. Delay is a good policy for Russia, as the Turks have already placed every man they can muster in the field, while the Russians can constantly increase their army up to the moment of action. Nevertheless, a Russian general recently informed a friend of mine, that the Russians were fully prepared to sacrifice 30,000 men in forcing the passage of the Danube, should circumstances compel them to immediate action in that direction.

The Times's correspondent telegraphs from Bucha rest on Monday as follows: "The most exaggerated reports are flying about concerning the number of Russians now in Roumania. I do not believe they exceed 50,000,"

THE RUSSIANS MOVING SLOWLY.

The Times's dispatch from Bucharest, dated Monday, says: "The Russians are advancing very slowly. The left wing rests at Reni. The Grand Duke Nicholas will establish his headquarters at Jassy to-day, whence they will afterward be advanced to Ploiesti. It is reported that the Turkish gunboats have left the lower Danube, fearing tor pedoes and the Russian heavy artillery.

"It is believed that the slow movement of the Russians is due to an intention to give the Turks ample time to reflect upon their present situation."

The News's special from Galatz reports that passage down the Danube is now impossible, owing to obstructions placed by the Russians at the mouth of the Pruth.

THE DUTIES OF THE BELLIGERENTS. The Gazette publishes a letter from Lord Derby to the heads of Departments of State announcing certain rules according to which men-of-war of belligerents are ferbidden from using any British port as a station for any warlike purpose, ringing their prizes thereto, embarking any warlike steres or more coal and provisions than sufficient for immediate want, or remaining longer than 24 hours, except in case of stress of weather, damage, or necessity of ob taming provisions.

SERVIA AND THE PORTE. LONDON, Tuesday, May 1, 1877.

The Vierna correspondent of The Times says: The Porte has now given official assurance that it does not intend to carry on the war on Servian territory. This doubtless in consequence of of the Powers at Constantinople. These representations, however, would probably not have been so effectual had the Powers not been in position to assure the Porte that Russia had no intention to draw Servia into the range of her operations. Despite the foregoing, The Times's Belgrade special dispatch says: "Servia is still undecided. Turkish troops have appeared in the neighborhood of Supova'z. It is reported that the militia will be mobilized within the next day or two."

RUSSIAN PROGRESS IN ASIA. LONDON, Tuesday, May 1, 1877.

The Times Paris correspondent says a teleram from Tiffis states that the Russian administration has been established in the district of Schuraguel, near Kars. The Russians have occupied Dgwin (Digvirt) in Turkish Georgia, tue inhabitants receiving them as friends and sucrendering their arms to them.

[Tiflis is an important town of Asiatic Russia, in Georgia. The telegram referred to is therefore from a Russian source. Turkish Georgia is convenient to the Russian territory.]

BRITISH PRECAUTIONS. LONDON, Tuesday, May 1, 1877.

THE SUPPOSED REMAINS OF MR. BLISS

STATEMENT OF BAILROAD OFFICIALS. CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 30 .- Henry W. Stager of the Lake Shore Railroad and D. W. Whittle went down to Euclid this afternoon on a special engine and had the body which was thought to be the remains of Mr. P. P. Bilss interred. The body is not that of Mr. Bilss, but that of a man about 5 feet 8 inches high, thick set, prominent uneven teeth, and in appearance a German. Both Stager and Whittle are confident from personal experience at First Methodist Episcopal Church of Greenpoint, made ad. destroyed the searching for bodies that it is extremely dresses appropriate to the occasion and in hearty sympathy improbable if not an extra that any of the bodies from the wreck could have passed under the ice and down the creek into the lake, and unite in sending this message to assure the friends of those lost at Ashtabula that in their judgment no more bodies will ever be found.

TELEGRAPH RIVALRY.

ACTION OF THE WESTERN UNION AGAINST THE AT LANTIC AND PACIFIC, AND THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD. St. Louis, April 30.-The Western Union

Telegraph Company, through Col. R. C. Clowry, Assistant General Superintendent, flied a petition in the Circui Court asking an injunction against the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company and against the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company to restrain the former from trans-porting or permitting to be transported over its road any telegraph poles or other material to be used by it or the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company in the erection or construction of a telegraph line on the roadway of said company between St. Louis and Kansas City, and to restrain and enjoin the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph Company from erecting or causing to be erected upon the roadway of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, between St. Louis and Kansas City, any telegraph poles or line of telegraph, and from inter fering in any way with the telegraph line owned and operated by plaintiffs, and from interfering with any of the rights acquired by the Western Union Company under rights acquired by the Western Union Company under the contract between it and the said railroad company. The injunction was graved, and orders of the above import were issued and served on the defendants this afternoon. The Western Union Company sets forth in its petition that it has under contract with the old Missouri Pacific Company, and which is equally binding upon the present company, the exclusive right to erect, operate, and maintain a telegraph line on the route of said Missouri Pacific Railroad, and the court has taken the same view of the matter. It seems the Athabic and Pacific Telegraph Company took advantage, and were permitted to take advantage, of Saturday and Sunday to distribute poles along part of the route of the railroad company in order to avoid process of law.

It is understood that the Athautic and Pacific Company will file a motion to dissolve the injunction within the time allowed by law, say five days, when the probabilities are that the case will be heard on its merits.

THE VICTIMS OF THE MONTREAL FIRE. MONTREAL, April 30 .- The City Council today decided to pay the funeral expenses of the victims of the fire, and to attend the funeral in a body. In the Corn Exchange this forenoon over $1,000 was subscribed to the relief fund. A sacred concert will be held in aid of the widows and orphans of the victims. The Odd Fellows Freemasons and Orangemen held special meetings to night to consider the best means of assisting the be-reaved families. The body of Hammel, the only one not heretofore recognized, was identified by his wife this morning. The coroner's jury was to session all day, and are making a thorough investigation.

DISEASES OF MEN.

The importance of the healthness of the nervous system cannot be over-stimated; its power over life and death and the direct bearing which it has on human happiness seems to be recognized; its capabilities, its qualities, and its powers; the importance of its healthful preservation, its moderale uses, the danger of overtaxing it, whether through thought, study, or intense application in mental investigation and research; whether by the absorbing attention necessary to the conduct of complicated and momentous outsiness interests, or by the excessive induspence of the appelities and projectalization as also the knowledge of what is moneration, what is excess, and when these exist the absolute necessity of promptly seeking advice from an expert who, for a long series of years, has devoted his whole time anniation to the study, investigation, and treatment of all the malades of this important department, to accurately determine the diseased conditions, their uniture, causes, and origin, whether arising from the want of exercise, its irregularity or excess, and who, from his exp. risence and practice, has learned to diseaver at once the derangement and as promptly apply the remedy, thus avoiding the patient, show feeling after the truth, so common to the inexperienced and so annoying to the pution, to, every naturally, what is the matter, the extent of the derangement, the probabilities of recuperation and the time required.

*A striking example of the value of experience and practical observation, as well as the usefulness of the prompt application of smitable remedies, is found in the important statement, coming, not from one, but a dozen public institutions, not only at home but abroved that a very large propertion of those who american mental disturbance and absolute insanity permanently recover, who are placed under treatment within a year after the first symptoms have unaffected thought, it can only recover its stronger bringing them up from their overworked the institutions, not only a thome but abroved that
